Mr. Rockefeller's Career. Providence Telegram.

When John D. Rockefeller, that beloved philanthropist, told his pastor the other day, speaking of the place where he was born: "I shudder to think what I should have been if I had remained in Richford all my life," the pastor sympathetically re-"Yes, and I cannot help thinking what a loss it would have been to the world had you remained in that small town." And John D. repoined: "I don't know about that, but the personal comfort that religion has been to me has been such that I sometimes feel that I would like to go on the lecture platform and tell the people about it." The question is, how much of a real loss to the world would it have been had Mr. Rockefeller remained in Richford? He has amassed fabulous wealth, through methods that have often been criticised, and has disbursed different large sums to places of learning; but has he rendered the world any substantial service, or actually contributed to its welfare? That is the measure by which his worth to humanity at large must be decided. His own business has prospered, but has his prosperity brought fortune or reverse to others? Has his pecuniary advantage been derived from a strict application of the golden rule, or from personal selfishness? The minister who flattered the great financier fairly may be pardoned his honeyed words on the score of a desire to stand pat with so mighty a magnate; but #### did they ring true? Willie's Waterloo.

Willie always seemed so weak He could not do his work— This was only feebleness, For Willie would not shirk. Mother always humored him-Gave him dainty food; Father made the other boys Pull weeds and split the wood.

Willie went away to school, A timid, shrinking lad; Mother warned him most of all Against the football fad. Father, too, advised his son Not to try the game; Willie, though, could only see That football led to fame.

Willie joined the trial squad, And worked both day and night: Soon he grew both big and broad, And added to his height; Muscle bulged upon each limb, Firmness marked his jaw, Then be made his big mistake-He went home to see his pa. Father thought he was immense.

And shouted in surprise:

"Is this feeble little Will? I can't believe my eyes! Willie spoke of going back-Brought up with a jerk-You're strong enough to work." -W. D. Nesbit, in Chicago Tribune.

RAILWAY MANAGERS CONSIDERING THIS IMPORTANT QUESTION.

Good Weather Conditions Increase Freight Movement-Rockefellers Gaining Hold on Many Roads.

A report is current that the issues of passes by Western roads the coming year will be greatly restricted, and passes to shippers or merchants entirely discontinued. This sounds like an old story which James Barker, many years general pasis forgotten a few weeks later and passes are issued as usual. To bring about the agent of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, annual pass question executive officers of Western roads were in session two or three days in Chicago, and it was positively decided that the issue of exchange passes and become president of the Philadelphia should be greatly curtailed; further, that annual passes would not be exchanged for stock market effect or by some one with any road that did not grant a similar | with a personal enmity. He added that favor. This, of course, means that officers of the Eastern trunk lines, no matter what their rank, will not receive any annual passes from Western roads because trunk lines refuse to issue exchange passes. Return passes to men in charge of live stock shippers are also to be discontinued, and a great curtailment in issuing passes of any form will be undertaken.

Rockefeller Investments. While buying liberally the stock of Eastern railroads, the Rockefellers, including their Standard Oil associates, have taken advantage of recent low prices of stocks to largely increase their holdings of Western railway shares, and it is stated that there is no single influence more powerful in and other minor matters. General Superthis country than that of the Rockefellers, who are dominant in the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, the Lackawanna, the New York, from out of the city. New Haven & Hartford, and have very strong holdings in the Vanderbilt lines, the Misseuri Pacific, the Union Pacific and ings of the Pennsylvania, the Southern resigned to go to the Chicago, Rock Island afternoon before he went to Fairview Railway, the Erie, the Reading and the Delaware & Hudson. A prominent railroad | Mo. Mr. Maxwell had been with the I., D. official says the Rockefellers are rapidly & W. fourteen years, and his successor, becoming a dominant factor in railway Mr. Conner, has been in the telegraph demanagement.. It is stated that a large partment of the road a number of years. ck of Baltimore & Ohio shares, formerly held by a financial interest which took part in the reorganization of the B. & O. system, has changed hands, and there is reason to believe that this stock went to William Rockefeller. William Rockefeller is one of the largest individual holders of New York, New Haven & Hartford shares, and from present appearances the future of this road will be greatly affected by its connection with the Pennsylvania.

Situation Improving. With the exception of grain shipments east over the trunk lines, the railroads, with only one or two exceptions, show increased shipments in comparison with the tonnage of a year ago, or of two years ago. It has become such a common thing to record increases that the public or even the railroad men do not take cognizance of the fact until some menacing congestion or heavy freight movement is at hand, but with almost double motive power, with improved classification and facilities for the easy and rapid handling of freight, and with close observance of the per diem rule, railroad men are hoping to prevent any semblance of congestion or car shortage of importance; but, despite the provisions in the way of cars and power, freight is still moving slowly, and railroad men are prone to place the blame for these conditions on consignees, who do not unload cars at destination promptly.

Annual Meeting of the C. & O.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company was held Tuesday. The following were re-elected directors: Decatur Axtell, | ninety miles an hour with lighter trains Chauncey Depew, John P. Green, William 500.00 H. Newman, S. M. Provost, Samuel Rea, George W. Stevens, H. McK. Twombley and H. T. Wickham. The Guyandot Valley Railroad Company and the Greenbrier Railway Company, two of the principal branches of the Chesapeake & Ohio, were consolidated with it. Arrangements were made for the transfer of the franchises, rights, privileges and property of the West Virginia corporation to the Chesapeake & Ohio. The annual report of the directors for the last fiscal year was read and approved. A resolution was adopted asking the directors to consolidate as soon as possible the Kentucky roads which form a part of the C. &. O. system into one road, to be known as the C. &. O. Railroad of Kentucky.

An Oil-Can Controversy.

The Delphos Oil Can Company yesterday brought suit in the Federal Court against Harry B. Clark & Bro., of Wabash, Ind., passenger agents' convention week before last in New Orleans. These cars are the for the alleged infringement of an oil can patent. The plaintiffs are makers of a patent oil can and other novelties of a similar character, and it is claimed that a Toledo firm is manufacturing the same goods which have been sold to grocers all over the State of Indiana. The Clarks are grocers, and the suit brought yesterday is a test case. If the plaintiff wins it will seek to collect damages from all the grocers in this State using the Toledo cans.

Troubles of a Wife. Della A. Keehn filed suit for divorce from William E. Keehn in the Superior Court vesterday. The plaintiff alleges that her husband spent all his evenings in a neighboring saloon and came home drunk every Saturday night and cursed and abused her. He failed to provide the necessities of life for her, and on the 12th of last month left ticularly active in its communications with her, taking a large part of the household | cuit Court. goods with him, leaving her a small amount of furniture, which she sold for material supplied by these exiles in this that she might live.

-Infringement of Trade-mark .-

In Wrigsley Co. vs. Iowa Soap Co.,

appeared that the plaintiff had established a large and lucrative trade in a superior brand of soap, which it called and marked "Old Country Soap." The defendant made and sold a soap which it called and branded "Our Country's Soap." The packages of the two manufacturers were of the same size and shape, but the dress of the defendant's product bore the defendant's name and its place of manufacture, and was so unlike that of the plaintiff that it was not something of real value. the deposit, being for the purpose of defeating a regular proceeding in a court, was against public policy, and he could not secure the aid of the courts to recover it. [73 Pacific Rep., (Washington), 374.]

Gambling Debt-Validity of Check .-A statute declares that all notes, bills or other securities, the consideration for which shall be money or other things of value won by playing at any unlawful game shall be void as between the parties and all others, except holders in good faith without notice. Held that a check issued for money advanced for the purpose of gambling, where the payee wins the money, is void between the parties, without regard to whether the money is won before or after its advancement. [73 Pacific (Washing, Judge Mount), 351.]

-Murder-Right of Self-defense.-The right of self-defense being founded on necessity, the party who would invoke it must avoid the attack, if he can do so without danger to himself. But where an assault, precipitated without provocation, is such as to indicate to reasonable mind acting on appearances, that the danger of life or the infliction of great bodily harm is imminent, the party assailed is justified in killing the aggressor if necessary, and need not retreat or resort to expedients less violent. [72 Pacific Rep. (Oregon, Judge Wolverton), 333.] -Bargain Counters-Damages for Broken Leg.-Miss Carrie Loose, of Richmond, Va., ha brought suit against a dry goods store for $5,000 damages for a broken leg. It seems that the injury was received in a crush at a bargain counter, whither she had gone, no doubt, in search of a greatly reduced piece of ribbon. She claims that the store should have regulated the inflow of customers, but we fear any attempted regulation of this sort would be greatly resented by womankind, and would perhaps result in many suits. The court will doubtless apply the rule of caceat emptor, or let the purchaser beware. [Law Notes.]

There was only a small crowd of buyers in sight Tuesday morning, and the surrounding indications give an unsatisfactory market from the seller's standpoint. They were not disappointed, for in the regular auction which was held in the afternoon buyers were exceedingly indifferent and requested concessions in prices for practically all kinds. In fact, the bids in many the best heavy horses were so light that the owners could not afford to sell. Other grades of stock were in many cases $10 to $15 per head lower than a week ago, but occasionally a sale of Southern stock, for which there was a fair demand, was about steady. Very few horses in the heavy harness class sold at $150 per head. and good chunks sold from $125 to $135. sirable workers brought from $85 to $115, and Southern horses from $35 to $75. There was a fair demand for driving and coach horses at $25

Some Things Beyond McClellan.

In the undesirable but not impossible event of a Tammany success in New York this year. Uncle Joe Cannon will have still another place on the ways and means committee to fill. George B. McCleilan stood fourth among the Democratic members of that committee in the late Fifty-seventh Congress's time, being ranked by Richardson, of Cennessee, Robertson, of Louisiana, and Swanson, of Virginia, and ranking Newlands of Nevada (now senator) and Sam Cooper, of Texas. McClellan may be able to make stump speeches in four languages, but some things are beyond him. He couldn't be in two places-Washington and the City Hall of New York-at the same
